TRAVEL GUIDE

Y. Pimenov. Novaya Moskva (New Moscow), 1937

Hello Magic Judges and welcome to Moscow!

This guide is written to make your stay in Russia easy and enjoyable. We tried to put in everything you could need in a foreign country (and not to make it 50+ pages long).

We are really proud to have all of you in our city and hope you will have only good memories of your time spent here.

If you have any questions, please, contact us:

Moscow airports and transportation system.

Airports:

There are 3 International Airports in Moscow: Sheremetyevo, Domodedovo and Vnukovo. All of them are connected with the city by 'Aeroexpress' trains. They all will take you to the city centre (Circular subway line) in about 35-45 minutes, just pay attention to their schedule as they depart every half an hour with some exceptions. You can get to the airport the same way. One-way 'Aeroexpress' trip will cost you 340 rubles (\approx 8 eur).

Our Metro Map shows all the airports and Aeroexpress routes from them.

Every airport's Aeroexpress arrives at different Metro stations:

- Sheremetyevo aeroexpress arrives at Belorusskaya station
- Domodedovo aeroexpress arrives at Paveletskaya station
- Vnukovo aeroexpress arrives at Kievskaya station

Sheremetyevo
Belorusskaya

Vnukovo
Kievskaya

this sign in the airport will lead you to the Aeroexpress station.

If you want to save money, you can ride a bus. It will cost you about 70 rubles (\sim 1,75 euros) and it will bring you to the nearest subway station that is usual the last one situated about 20-30 minutes away from the Circular subway line. Be ready that bus drivers won't understand English though. The working hours are 5:35am to 0:00am. Time gap between buses ranges from 5 to 30 min.

A taxi costs about 1800R, and it's the lowest price.

Subway (Moscow Metro):

You can find this map pretty much everywhere in subway and near the stations. Though it may be a good idea to download an app with metro map to your smartphone.

Subway system is good in Moscow. Usually you can get wherever you want by it. There are three kinds of tickets and two ways to buy them.

Single tickets

1 ride	40 RUR
2 rides	80 RUR
5 rides	150 RUR
11 rides	300 RUR
20 rides	500 RUR

90 minutes ticket

1 ride	50 RUR
--------	--------

You get one ride on the subway and unlimited number of rides on the bus/tram/trolley for 90 minutes.

Troyka card

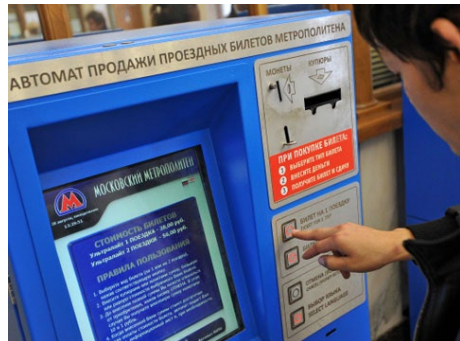

1 ride	28 RUR
--------	--------

You pay 50 RUR refundable fee for the card, add credit to the card and it automatically charges you. There is no minimum charge.

There is 3-5 min delay to reuse it, so it's hard to use one card for several people

Buy at the ticket vending machine

To buy from the TVM just click on "EN" - this button change language to English - and follow the directions.

Buy at the ticket office

To buy ticket here you need to practice these phrases:

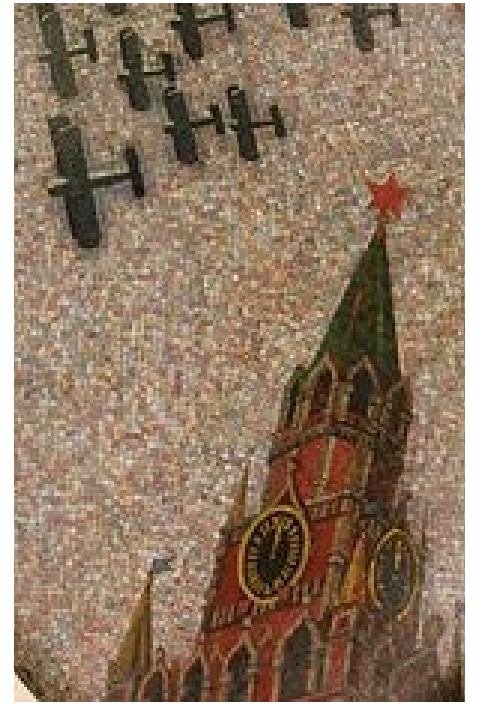

- "na odnu/dve/pyat'/odinnadtsat'/dvadtsat'" gets you 1/2/5/11/20 single ride ticket.
- "na devyanosta minut" gets you one 90 minutes ticket
- "na troiku" adds credit to your troika card

You can find both on every station, but be advised: there's not a single word in english anywhere in the subway and no one in ticket offices speaks english!

Ticket machines and ticket offices in Moscow subway don't accept credit cards!

Bus / Tram / Trolleybus

Tram, trolley bus, bus and subway systems have unified tickets, which are sold in the subway ticket offices and ticket machines. Ticket machines, however, sell only 1 and 2 ride tickets, which cost 40R and 80R respectively. I recommend to buy Troyka card or 5 / 11 rides ticket. There is no adequate map for ground public transition system, so it's pretty hard for a foreigner to use it.

When thinking of Moscow Subway, don't take it as just a way to get somewhere. Moscow Subway is one of the most beautiful subways in the world. Almost every station (especially in the part surrounded by Circular line) was designed to be unique and match its name and its interior. We strongly recommend you not just ride trains there, but at least look outside at stations or even get out of the train and look at these 'underground palaces'. Don't forget to look up.

Also outside there is a pier where you can get a ticket (450 rubles) and ride a water-bus to the city centre and back to the Vorob'evy Gory.

Some other stations you can find here (with a brief description):

1. Amusing Planet
 2. Ten Station of Moscow Metro
 3. Most beautiful subway stations in Moscow
- Come to Moscow to see all of these! ;)

My favourite station is Vorob'evy Gory. It is located on the bridge over Moscow river, it's broad, bright and has some examples of Darwin museum exhibits.

Vorob'evy Gory station from outside.

Tournament location and how to get there.

GP Moscow 2014 will be held at VDNHa (Exhibition Ground), at the 55th Pavilion called 'Electrificatsiya' (Электрификация). The easiest way to get to the venue is subway.

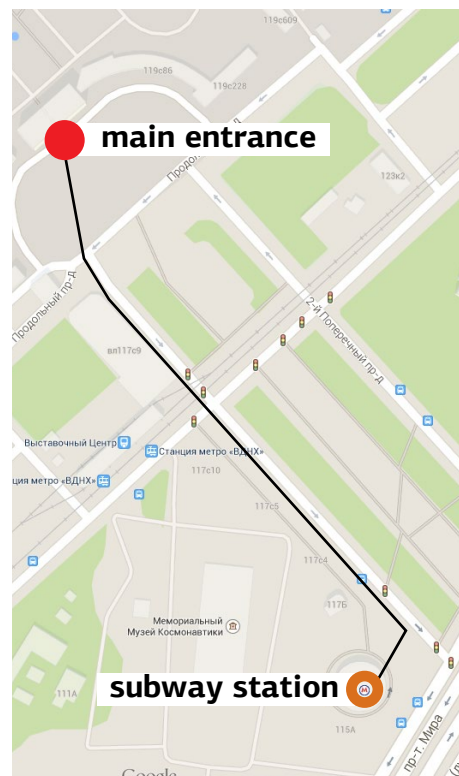

Subway station is called VDNHa and is located at the north part of orange line.

If you're travelling from the city centre (in north direction), the exit is near first car. The exit you need has escalators (there are two exits from this station). If this won't help, look at the sign and go in the BBЦ direction (to the right on this sign):

When you go out of the station, take to the left and go towards big observation wheel, passing tram rails and monorail trains. You will see the main entrance.

After entering the park, go straight, sometimes even when you think there is no way to go :) (There are two attraction parks (to the left and to the right after entering the VDNHa territory): feel free to visit them in your free time. They don't ask money for entering: you pay for every single ride. Prices are around 150-300 rubles (3,5 - 7 eur), tickets are sold in ticket offices (KACCA).)

55th Pavilion (Tournament Venue)

A map of VDNHa territory is on the last page of this guide.

Hotels near the event site and cheaper accomodation.

The staff hotel this year is Dehotel, it's almost 3km away from the venue.

Notice that the subway station exit is the opposite to the one that leads to the venue. So if you travel from the city center you need to take exit closest to the last car to get to the hotel. When on the station, go to the side opposite to the escalator. You'll see this sign and the station will look like this:

Enter the arc and walk to the escalator. At the glass exit doors walk right, you'll see this sign:
From here turn right again

When you're out of the station you should see this:
Then follow the directions on the map.

You may also consider one of these hotels: they are also close to the location and not too pricey.

Tourist Hotel

This hotel is conveniently located a 10-minute walk from the Botanical Gardens. The Botanichesky Sad Metro Station is a 7-minute walk away, and offers connections to central Moscow. The All-Russia Exhibition Centre is within walking distance. Free Wi-Fi is available in all areas.

Business Tourist Hotel

Less than 1 km from the Botanical Garden and All-Russia Exhibition Centre, this modern hotel in Moscow offers a garden, traditional Russian food, and a sauna. It has a 24-hour reception

Baikal Hotel

Located 15 minutes' walk from All-Russia Exhibition Centre and 50 metres from Hotel Baikal bus stop, this hotel in Moscow features a sauna and solarium. The restaurant serves Russian and European cuisine.

Hostels

You may want to book a bed in a hostel, which would be cheaper and you can find one much closer to the city center. The good place to find one is this website: <http://www.hostelbookers.com/hostels/russia/moscow/map>. For example try these: we chose one cheapest, one closest to the location and one right in the city center.

Ocharovanny Strannik Hostel

Pechatnikov lane 26

There are no hostels near VDNHa, but this one is most closest.

Galina's Flat

Chaplygina str. 8 - 35

There are two types of room: private twin room and 5 bed dorm room. There is total of seven beds; everybody shares one little bathroom. Kitchen, laundry and Internet facilities are also available. Galina has cats. Shared rooms price are 400 rub per person per night, private budget double (shared bathroom) are 600 rub.

Comrade Hostel

Maroseyka Street, 11, 3rd Floor

Ideally located in the historic Kitai-Gorod section of central Moscow. Ten minutes and less from the Kremlin, Red Square, Lenin's Mausoleum, GUM shopping center, the former KGB and now the FSB building, and the Bolshoi Theatre, the Moscow River, etc.

Good places to eat.

Cheap and fast:

Stolovaya №57

Self-service Soviet style dining in the very heart of Moscow. The dishes are prepared in the best traditions of Soviet cuisine, according to the recipes of The Book of Healthy and Tasty Food.

10:00-22:00,
Red Square, GUM, 3rd floor
metro: "Plushchad' Revolutsii"

Moo-Moo

Of all the Russian fast-food places to try, this is it. The buffet style dining may be frustrating, but usually pointing works. Avoid salads and mystery meat, but you're probably safe with chicken Kiev, bliny and a side of buckwheat. Try pastries too.

08:00-23:00,
Prospekt Mira, 119B, building 2.
metro "Alekseevskaya"

East-Buffer

Another buffet style place, it's close to the local game store and very cheap. Cuisine is asian. Ask waiters to heat your food in microwave, if it's cold.

12:00-23:00,
Novoslobodskaya, 16
metro "Mendeleevskaya"

Takeaway food:

These are located usually in kiosks near subway stations.

Teremok

Traditional russian bliny (thin pancakes) with all the fillings you can imagine.

Kroshka-kartoshka

Stuffed potatoes, sandwiches and salads are good to go. And the usual advice to all the travellers: don't eat food you can't name :) Just in case.

Russia is famous for its bliny (БЛИНЫ), or pancakes, with different fillings (meat, mushrooms, caviar, apples, caramel...). You can find a lot of small kiosks selling pancakes in streets as well as at food courts in shopping malls. Just look for any sign saying БЛИНЫ.

If you prefer pizza (пицца), or sushi (суши), or McDonalds (Макдоналдс) - you can always find a lot of these everywhere. Sushi and pizza are more popular here than Russian food, really.

Pubs:

Beer-House

Close to the hotel, german-style beer restaurant.

Crazy Daisy

Approach with caution: they have prices like “13 B52s for 1000 rubles”, if you’re not careful, you’ll wake up in a month in Novosibirsk, without money and any idea how you got there.

Attention!

However hungry you may be, don’t ever buy food in the VDNHa park. It’s overpriced, almost certainly not good and cooked with black magicks.

Of course, there are lots more of good places to eat and drink, we just chose the closest, cheapest and the ones we ourselves like most.

12:00-23:00,
Prospekt Mira, 124, building 4.

from 18:00 to the last guest standing
Sretenka, 21/28

Coffee-houses:

Starbucks

Do you really need a description for that? :)

Coffee-House

Lots of coffee, desserts, salads and pretty decent business-lunch, too.

Shokoladnitsa

Pretty much same as Coffee-House.

Popular tourist spots.

Kremlin

Nerve centre of the Russian state, the Kremlin (literally 'fortified town') is undoubtedly Moscow's most famous monument. Founded way back in 1147 it's undeniably iconic, linked to the most monumental events in Russian history. This importance is reflected in its UNESCO World Heritage status - there's no better place to consider the fascinating complexities of Russian history.

The State Tretyakov gallery

The largest collection of Russian art.

Address: Metro Tretyakovskaya, Novokuznetskaya or Polyanka, 10, Lavrushinsky Pereulok.

Open: 10:00-19:30, closed on Mondays

The Pushkin State Museum of Fine Arts

Moscow's flagship gallery opened in 1912, and now has one of the most representative collections in Russia of foreign art dated from ancient times to modern days. The Museum of Private Collections across the street shows rotating exhibits of top quality and varying tastes.

Address: Metro Kropotkinskaya, 12, Volkhonka. Open: 10:00-18:00, closed on Mondays.

Park Pobedy (Victory Park)

The Memorial Victory Complex on Poklonnaya Gora covers more than 48,000 square meters. Walking through the Park you can find many monuments and open air exhibitions displaying weapons, tanks and armored vehicles, fighters and helicopters, parts of submarines and warships.

Address: Metro Park Pobedy.

Vorob'evy Gory (Sparrow Hills)

There is an observation point on Kosygina street and newly-wed couples traditionally come here to have their photograph taken against the panorama.

You can also ride a water-bus here.

Address: Metro Vorob'evy Gory.

Novodevichy Convent

One of the most beautiful Moscow convents, founded at the beginning of 16th century, for 400 years the Novodevichy Convent was the witness and the participant of important historical events, connected with the names of Ivan the Terrible, Boris Godunov, Sofia and Peter I.

Address: Metro Sportivnaya, 1, Novodevichiy proezd. Open for excursion: 10:00-17:00, closed on Tuesdays, the first Monday of every Month.

Must-see.

Times and epochs festival. 7-8 June

If you have any chance to come to Russia a week early, this festival is the best way to spend weekend and get closer to Russian history and culture. This year's theme is early 20th century, end of the Tsar reign, revolution in the air, WWI, aristocrats and proletariat, life in the city and country-life. Tons of activities for everyone: from high-society ball to field-hospital and war camp and country market. The festival is held in Kolomenskoe park, which is a must-see place any time: aside from the stunning landscape, the palace of the Tsar Alexey Mikhailovich, church of Ascension are beautiful and full of history.

Botanical Garden

This park is a botanist's treasure trove, with a rose garden containing 2,500 varieties. There is also an arboretum whose highlight is a glorious oak grove (home to squirrels who are tame to the point of impudence), a delightful Japanese rock garden, and an orangery with a wide collection from the tropics.

Address: Metro Vladykino or Botanicheskiy Sad, 123B, Prospekt Mira. Open: 10:00-20:00, closed on Mondays and Tuesdays.

Bulgakov House

Steeped in popular Moscow legend, this is where Bulgakov, the author of Master and Margarita and Young Doctor's Notebook lived and wrote his famous novel. Today it is a historical exhibition dedicated to the house's most famous inhabitant. Also has a cat and a cafe :)

Address: Metro Mayakovskaya, Bolshaya Sadovaya ulitsa, 10. Open 13:00 to 23:00, and on Fridays and Saturdays until 01:00. Entrance is free.

Ostankino TV Tower

Amazing panorama of Moscow and nearest is opened from the observation deck, which is located on height 337 meters.

Address: Monorail station Telesentr, entrance №2, 15/2, Akademika Korolyova (Excursion complex of Ostankino TV Tower). Open: 10:00-20:00.

Moscow Zoo

The unique collection of the Zoo numbers over 7,000 species. The animals are kept in the open-air cages and pavilions designed in accordance with the natural habitat.

Address: Metro Barikadnaya or Krasnopresnenskaya, 1, Bolshaya Gruzinskaya. Open: summer 10:00-20:00, closed on Mondays.

Memorial Museum of Astronautics

This fascinating Moscow museum sits in the shadow of the 100m-high (328ft) titanium Space Obelisk that has wonderful frescoes depicting Soviet space exploration. Outside the museum are two Tupolev passenger aircraft and a Vostok rocket of the same type that took Yuri Gagarin into space.

Address: Prospekt Mira 111. You never miss it when walk from VDNHa metro station to the event location.

Rabochiy i Kolhoznitsa Monument

The famous sculptural composition Rabochiy (worker) i Kolhoznitsa (kolkhoz woman) Monument is one of the most famous symbol of Soviet Union. You can also visit the museum which dedicated to the works of monument authors - architect Boris Iofan and sculptor Vera Mukhina.

Address: Metro VDNKh, 123B, Prospekt Mira.

Open: Tu – 10:00-21:00, We-Su - 10:00-20:00, closed on Mondays.

Bolshoi Theatre

The Bolshoi Theatre, which for many years now has been regarded as one of Moscow's main sights, is a symbol of Russia for all time. Every visitor in Russia can see this building - its iconic neoclassical facade is depicted on the Russian 100-ruble banknote.

Address: Metro Teatralnaya, 1, Teatralnaya ploshchad.

Saint John's Hill (Ivanovskaya Gorka)

A hill in the center of Moscow, opening a breathtaking view over the mostly untouched historical center of the city with its narrow streets, old buildings, churches and monasteries.

Address: Metro Kitay-Gorod, Malyy Ivanovskiy Pereylok.

Tea House on Myasnitskaya Street

Though it's basically just a tea-shop and a cafe, its facade, ornamented by its own back in late 19th century, is stunning and lavishly detailed with oriental designs.

Address: Metro Turgenevskaya or Chistye Prudy, Myasnitskaya, 19.

Ferris Wheel "Moscow-850"

Moscow-850 has a diameter of 70 metres. Constructed for Moscow's 1997 850th anniversary, it was promoted as the highest attraction in Moscow and Eastern Europe. It has 40 passenger cars, of which five are open, and the remainder enclosed. Each rotation takes seven minutes.

*Address: Metro VDNHa, Prospekt Mira, VDNHa
Open: 11:00-22:00*

ROCK AROUND THE KREMLIN

The Moscow Kremlin – main fortress of the Tsars, headquarters of the Soviet Union and now the residence of the Russian president – is the real heart of Moscow. There are so many sights in the Kremlin and around, therefore I need a separate chapter for all this places of interest.

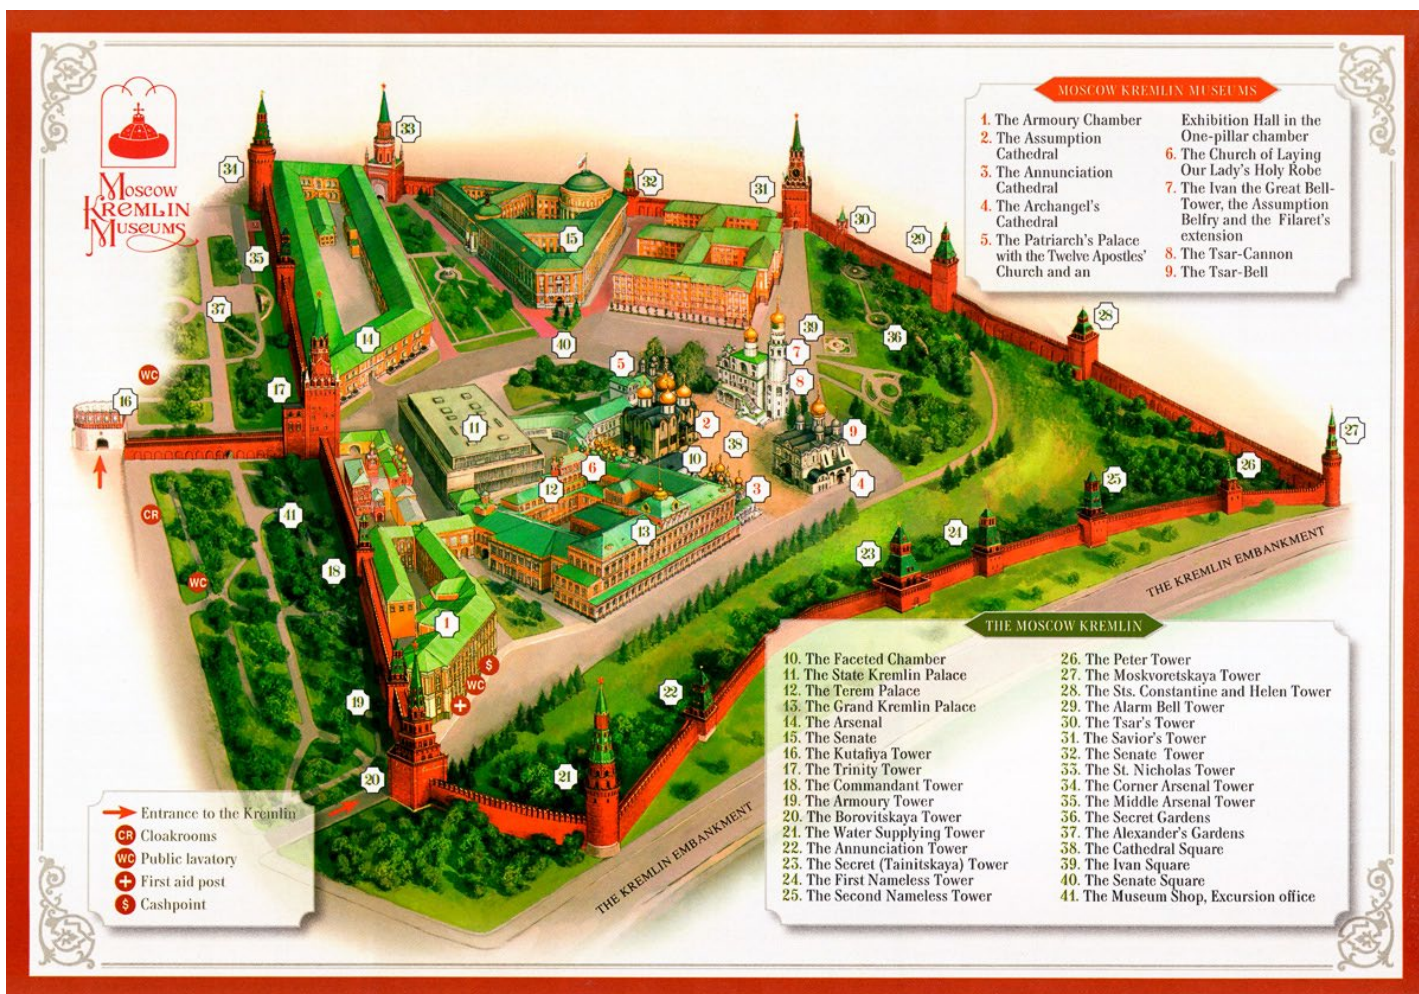

It is easy to get to the Kremlin by metro: Borovitskaya, Biblioteka Imeni Lenina and Aleksandrovskiy Sad (this three are nearest stations to the ticket office and main Kremlin entrance at Kutafya Tower), Arbatskaya, Teatralnaya, Ploschad Revolyutsii, Okhotniy Ryad.

The Kremlin is a magnificent architectural ensemble with monumental walls and towers, gold-domed cathedrals and ancient palaces. Here you also can see the Arsenal and the Senate, admires the Tsar Bell and the Tsar Cannon, famous masterpieces of the Russian casting, and visits the famous treasure-house – the Armoury Chamber.

Then walk to north through the Aleksandrovskiy Sad (Alexander's Garden), along the Kremlin wall. On the left hand side you can see building of the Moscow Manege [41], on the right hand side – obelisk [37], erected in 1913 in honor of 300 years of the Romanov dynasty and “ruined” grotto, the reminder of ruined cities those Napoleon left behind in 1812.

Next interesting spot is underground Shopping Centre “Okhotniy Ryad” [42] on Manezhnaya ploschad. You can find here free Wi-Fi and cheap meal in food court on the bottom floor, and then take a picture of fountains and playful statues from Russian fairy tales that ring the building. And don't forget to walk on the roof!

Let's come back to the Kremlin wall. Not so far from Middle Arsenal Tower [35] you can find small memorial complex for Great Patriotic War (WW2), including eternal flame and Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. If you catch the right time, you can see The Guard Change Ceremony. Then exit from Aleksandrovskiy Sad through the big beautiful cast iron gate and look at the monument of Marshal Georgy Zhukov [opposite to 42], situated in the neighborhood of State Historical Museum. You can reach the Red Square by walking along the right hand side of the building, but I recommend walking along the left hand side and drop a coin in the mark of Moscow Centre. On the Red Square look at the GUM Shopping Centre [43], then walk along the Kremlin wall. This wall also is a VIP Cemetery [33-32] with tombs of Stalin, Gagarin, etc. The next great sight is the Lenin Mausoleum [near 32], that serves as the current resting place of Vladimir Lenin. Then walk forward to the tallest tower of Kremlin – Spasskaya (Saviour's) [31], and then to the Saint Basil's Cathedral, aka “Cathedral of the Protection of Most Holy Theotokos on the Moat”. It commemorates the capture of Kazan and Astrakhan by army of Ivan the Terrible. Near the Cathedral you can see Monument to Minin and Pozharsky and a stone platform for the proclamation of the tsar's edicts, known as Lobnoye Mesto. After sightseeing I recommend to go down to the Moscow river and walk on Kremlevskaya naberejnaya along the Kremlin wall to Bolshoy Kamenny Most (Big Stone Bridge) [20-21]. You can take a great pictures of the Kremlin from this bridge as the cherry on the top of wonderful trip around the Kremlin.

Buying souvenirs at the Red Square may empty your wallet quickly! For the souvenir hunt we recommend you All-Russia Exhibition Centre. Which is luckily is right next door to the event site (VDNHa). It's a permanent general-purpose trade show, there are many pavilions where you can find many souvenirs.

“Me go and do that”

This part of the guide will teach you some general cyrillic words for comfortable staying in country where no one speaks English. OK, it's not true. You can easily find someone on the street who speaks English well. But don't expect sellers, drivers, any other service workers to know English. Be ready to communicate by pointing and grunting.

Tips and vocabulary.

Ask your flight attendant for an immigration card and fill it in on the plane. You'll save a lot of time staying in passport check line if you get there earlier than all other passengers.

Have a passport and an immigration card with a hotel registration (they have to put a stamp on your registration card; ask for it) with you at all times.

Officially, all foreigners are required to register with OVIR, the Visa and Registration Department, within seven days of their arrival. Hotels can do this for guests. Please keep your arrival ticket / boarding pass if you plan to leave Russia within seven days.

Passports and visas are thoroughly checked at immigration desks. All visitors have to fill out a customs declaration form upon arrival, which is available in various languages (some airlines hand them out on the plane). On the form you are asked to state how much currency you have and any valuables you may have with you. The form is rarely checked, but should be kept for the duration of your stay and handed back together with another declaration form at departure.

You can not pay here with euros or any other currency except rubles. It's about 50 rubles per euro.

If you need money exchange - there are many currency exchange offices everywhere, just looking for "ОБМЕН ВАЛЮТ" or "ОПЕРАЦИОННАЯ КАССА". But i highly recommend you to exchange money in bank, for example: СБЕРБАНК (sberbank).

Aeroport subway station, as well as Domodedovskaya, doesn't have anything in common with airports. :)
